How do we get at risk students excited about coming back to school?

We end the school year on a high note! In their previous schools, our students checked out as soon as their end of grade testing was completed. At Hope Academy, they still had three more weeks of school so we had to come up with creative ways to keep them engaged and learning. All of our students read missionary biographies and did power point presentations to share with the rest of the school. They made jewelry and sold it in a downtown store and they spent a day at the zoo in Asheboro. However, their favorite project was dissecting cows' eyes in science class! Not one student had participated in a dissection before and they were fascinated. During the last three weeks of school, our students were engaged and motivated. This preview left them excited about starting back after summer break.

HOPE ACADEMY

EDUCATE | ENCOURAGE | EQUIP

A private, non-denominational, Christ-centered school for at-risk youth in grades 5-8 in the Glenwood neighborhood of Greensboro.

The boys LOVED this project. They especially loved taking out the gooey part of the eye. ALL of them asked Ms. Kimmel if they could take their eye home. (She said no. Their moms were grateful.)
